

Staking University is one organization that offers locator training. They offer Locator Certification Seminars, On-Site training, Train the Trainer, and Online Training.

BCPUA is going to contact a locator training facility and see if they can get someone to train a group of local locators. Once an agenda is determined, they will get with NC 811 and open it up to other companies to see if they will be willing to send their employees for training. Result is to have a large group of locators in our local area to be trained and certified.
